

a. Organizations/ Companies Linked with Codentify

ORGANIZATIONS	DESCRIPTION
Digital Coding and Tracking Association (DCTA)	An association based in Switzerland, DCTA is comprised of tobacco transnational tobacco companies (i.e., BAT, PMI, JTI, Imperial Tobacco, among others). It was created to promote Codentify to governments.
Coalition Against Illicit Trade (CAIT)	A global coalition of businesses, including tobacco companies, CAIT promotes an “industry operated solution”; 6 of its 7 members are linked to the tobacco industry (Arjo, FATA, Domino, Fracture Code, Atos, Essentra).
COMPANIES
Arjo Solutions	Like Inexto, Arjo Solutions belongs to the French conglomerate Impala; CAIT member.
Atos	A French digital services company involved in Codentify’s development, Atos promoted Codentify in Asia and Lithuania; CAIT member.
Domino	A UK filters and security packaging company that has worked with the tobacco industry for 65 years; CAIT member.
Essentra	A UK filters and security packaging company that has worked with the tobacco industry for 65 years; CAIT member.
FATA Logistic Systems	FATA is an Italian logistics and transport company associated with development and promotion of Codentify; CAIT member.
FractureCode	A Danish company that offers digital solutions including Codentify; reportedly used by BAT to promote Codentify in Africa (Kenya, Mauritius, and Uganda); CAIT member.
Inexto	A French software provider, Inexto is part of the French conglomerate/ parent company, Impala, which purchased Codentify from DCTA.

Note: The information in this table is drawn from Gilmore, Gallagher, and Rowell’s peer-reviewed article published in Tobacco Control journal in 2018.