Annex 1: Detailed Terms of Reference

1. Purpose of the APW

Ongoing support, application and data management activities to the WHO Prequalification Unit, Medicines Assessment Team (PQT/MED) during 2022.

2. Background

The WHO Prequalification Unit-Medicines (PQT/MED) was established in 2001 as a pilot project to assist UN and other international procurers to identify quality assured medicinal products for bulk purchase and distribution to recipient countries. The project started with HIV/AIDS medicines and later expanded to include additional therapeutic areas such as TB, Malaria, RH (Reproductive Health), influenza, diarrhoea, NTDs (Neglected Tropical Diseases) and hepatitis B and C. Also, in 2010 PQT/MED launched its procedure for prequalification of APIs (Active Pharmaceutical Ingredients) as a response to the request of FPP (Finished Pharmaceutical Product) manufacturers and stakeholders for a publicly available list of quality assured APIs. In addition to its impact on expanded access to quality assured generic medicines, PQT/MED has contributed significantly to harmonized QA policies among international procurers, capacity building of NMRAs (National Medicines Regulatory Authorities) in recipient countries and establishing a procedure for facilitation of national registration of prequalified products.

The core work of PQT/MED is conducted during five-day bimonthly assessment sessions usually held at UN City in Copenhagen, Denmark, but temporarily held as Virtual meetings due to COVID-19 pandemic. These sessions convene assessors from regulatory agencies across the world, to assess product dossiers submitted by pharmaceutical manufacturers. Once all the parts of the dossier have been deemed acceptable and the Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP)/Good Clinical Practices (GCP) status of involved sites comply with WHO norms and standards the product is ready for prequalification.
